

CHAPTER 8 *AgreementAgreement of Pronouns with Antecedents

Two or more singular antecedents joined by or or nor should be referred to by a singular pronoun. Two or more antecedents joined by and should be referred to by a plural pronoun.

EXERCISE Underline the correct pronoun in each sentence.

1. Rosalie and Teresa have prepared (her, their) skits.
2. Neither of the boys wanted to eat (his, their) apple.
3. Is Bradley or Kirk going to give (his, their) opinion?
4. When the leaves blow into the garage, (it, they) need to be swept out.
5. Everyone on the block will mow (his, their) lawn.
6. The pizzas tasted better than (it, they) had ever tasted.
7. Felice and Ginny complained about (her, their) assignment.
8. My grandmother and grandfather sold (his, her, their) car.
9. Can Jack and Irene bring (his, her, their) pets to science class?
10. The squirrels are busy collecting (its, their) acorns.
11. Dori and Ann asked to be excused from class because (she, they) felt sick.
12. Pablo or Jay left (his, their) book in the locker.
13. No one asked why (he, they) had failed the test.
14. Someone in the crowd broke (his, their) foot.
15. Because Mrs. Martinez's son and daughter enjoyed science, (he, she, they) decided to become doctors.
16. Where did Bob put (his, their) hat?
17. All the boys will read (his, their) lines together.
18. Anybody who thinks this chapter is easy has not read (his, their) lesson.
19. Stephanie agreed to clean (her, their) room today.
20. Greg and Ryan told about (his, their) cousins in Hawaii.